

CASE STUDY · NORTHSKY SUPPLY · 2025–2026

Pipeline, engineered from zero.

NorthSky Supply, the U.S. business unit of ZKH Group (NYSE: ZKH), launched with no marketing team, no CRM and no playbook. I built the channels, the HubSpot system of record, the weekly reporting and an AI content pipeline, then ran them.

WHAT IT PRODUCED

0.5→5.0

Paid-media ROAS across Google Ads and Meta, launch to about month 19

10–12%

Conversion on follow-ups timed to each customer's reorder window

~$2.5M

Monthly revenue reached in under 18 months, a company-wide result I helped build

THE ARCHITECTURE

One system of record for every channel.

Spend, leads, orders, pipeline and revenue all landed in the same HubSpot instance that sales and service worked from every day.

Five moves, in order.

STEP 1

Architect the CRM first

Marketing, Sales and Service Hubs with the full product catalog, integrated with Shopify, OmniSend, GA4 and the ad platforms, so every lead and order had one record.

STEP 2

Launch paid search and paid social

Google Ads and Meta, judged on ROAS and pipeline in the CRM rather than platform clicks, and tuned month over month.

STEP 3

Build lifecycle from purchase data

With the product team I modeled how fast customers used up consumables and timed follow-up campaigns to the reorder window.

STEP 4

Close the loop with sales

I trained every sales and service rep on the CRM and its automations; leadership reviewed the live dashboards weekly.

STEP 5

Put AI inside the CRM

Named by ZKH's VP of IT and AI to lead a four-person AI team, I designed the HubSpot property mappings that delivered its content to reps.

SAME PLAYBOOK, EARLIER

It has worked before.
