Hiring Team
Nexeo Plastics
The Woodlands, TX

Dear Hiring Team,

The role you've described connects purchase history, digital behavior and sales follow-up into programs that move customers to act. That is the work I did at NorthSky Supply, the U.S. industrial-supply business of ZKH Group. I ran the B2B sales pipeline and the Shopify ecommerce channel side by side, aligning marketing, sales, customer service and product around a single commercial plan and a shared set of metrics. The business went from launch to roughly $2.5 million in monthly revenue in under 18 months.

When I arrived, HubSpot was in place but largely unbuilt, and I made it the operating system for the business. I integrated it with Shopify through an automated catalog sync and connected OmniSend, Google Ads, Meta and GA4 for campaign attribution. I designed the lifecycle stages, lead scoring and workflows that moved leads to sales and service, trained every rep on the system, and built the live dashboards leadership reviewed weekly. With our agency, Google Ads and Meta ROAS rose from under 0.5 to over 5.0.

Purchase history became the foundation of our repeat-purchase strategy. Working with the product team, I modeled consumable replenishment cycles and timed reorder campaigns to each account's buying window. Those campaigns converted at 10 to 12 percent. The product team and I also developed the bundle pricing and promotional offers across the catalog.

Previous roles reinforce the same discipline. At Raise3D, a 3D printing manufacturer, I led three North American product launches on Salesforce and HubSpot and lifted qualified pipeline to sales 40 percent. At Integrated Global Services, I turned Industrial Info Resources plant-turnaround intelligence into the target-account lists a 12-person global sales team worked from, and those programs generated $31 million in qualified pipeline.

MyNexeo gives your customers 24/7 access to pricing, inventory and ordering. Turning that capability into measurable growth in registrations, first orders and repeat purchases, with account managers at the center of the relationship, is the work I want to lead.

I look forward to an opportunity to learn more about the role and how I can help deliver results for your team.

Sincerely,

Brad Sebastian
